I am currently employed in the field of Architecture and the Built environment as a practicing architect and academic. In order to successfully complete a demanding profession as an architect, I use my abilities and expertise in research, teaching undergraduates in the area, and designing residential buildings. I have vast expertise creating residential structures for the past seven years, and my design philosophy combines a modern approach with the conventional thoughts of the intended users. It has been a tremendous amount of experience to persuade clients and negotiate design needs from inquiry through project execution. I have a passionate and knowledgeable team to put my ideas on paper and guarantee user pleasure after project completion. In addition, I enjoy teaching undergraduate Architecture students. I have been an instructor for 8 years, and during that time, I have always worked to achieve outcomes via the use of creative pedagogical techniques. Students' thesis supervision also remains part of teaching. In order to combat climate change, which is the frightening scenario of today, I am excited to inculcate the Sustainable Development Goals in our next generation. Research methodologies for architecture, landscape design, and energy and environment were among the topics I used to teach.

Besides this, I am research oriented and presented conference proceedings in an international conference. I actively publish research papers abroad as well. I am also active in publishing research paper internationally. I also used to conduct Juries and performed as an external examiner in different schools of Architecture in Pakistan.

I should also mention that my profile has steadily improved ever since I received my Architecture degree. As a result, I'm looking for a demanding position on a global stage where I may further enhance my expertise in the field of advanced architecture.
